Down East Community Hospital is pleased to present its annual report about its activities during 2009. What we present in these pages is a work in progress and we pledge to always be an organization focused on the future and developing a better way of delivering high-quality and safe healthcare services. We remember where we’ve been and pledge to never forget.

With the restoration of our certification by the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services we understand that this is the beginning of our journey, both for the hospital and for our community members, to ensure that our Washington County service area is very well cared for. To that end, we have developed a quality improvement program that is, according to the independent survey team that reviewed our program, one of the best in the state. The success of such a program depends upon our pledge to work continuously in every department of the hospital to do our jobs better.

This annual report reflects part of that story. We have benefited from an emergency receivership imposed by the Kennebec Superior Court that partnered our hospital with Eastern Maine Healthcare Systems and, through this relationship, we have assessed every corner of our organization. It was unfortunate that such dramatic change was necessary but we have made these changes across the board and we are a much improved organization. This improvement has been confirmed by the many survey teams that have visited us. This report presents our story but every member of our staff has a story to tell and we know that each of us is much changed and would gladly share our personal reflections on this journey.

An entirely new, board-certified medical staff in the emergency department and the addition of a new specialty service, otolaryngology or ENT, are proudly offered because we know our community is better served. During the coming year we already know of three board certified physicians who will be joining our staff and moving to Washington County. I’m very proud of our medical staff and their determination to form a better way of conducting the business of medicine than we have known in the past.

Likewise, I’m extremely proud of each member of the hospital staff. They have helped me to ensure that our Code of Conduct has real meaning within the organization. They’ve shown a commitment to continuing education that has created measurable change over the last year. When they smile, their smiles are genuine and show that we’re glad to be here to serve you. Hospitals are complex organizations and our pride in our staff comes from knowing that every single one of them is a professional.

We offer our story in these pages to strengthen your faith in your community hospital. We welcome your stories as opportunities to strengthen what we do well and to improve where improvement is called for. Thank you for the opportunity to serve you.

Douglas T. Jones, FACHE
President & CEO
In 2009, we invested in various equipment, building, and land improvements. We purchased the Machias Medical Associates building to expand physician space for current and new physician practices. The ED and Med/Surg departments were renovated to provide a nicer atmosphere and a new canopy was constructed over the ED ambulance entrance. A second imaging C-Arm was purchased for enhanced surgical imaging capability and a chemistry analyzer was purchased to increase testing capabilities done in our laboratory. ENT equipment was purchased to start our new service in the physician office and operation room consisting of a laser system, microscopes, laryngoscope and other items. A new Aespire anesthesia machine was purchased for the operating room and various other purchases were made for other departments. Various improvements were made to the hospital grounds and buildings.

In 2009, Karen Miller, MD joined our Active Staff

Karen Miller, MD
Otolaryngologist
New Service

Down East Community Hospital added board eligible Otolaryngologist Karen Miller, MD to our permanent medical staff. Dr. Miller is the only ENT in Washington County, our community will and does benefit immensely from her services.

Otolaryngologists are physicians trained in the medical and surgical management and treatment of patients with diseases and disorders of the ear, nose, throat and related structures of the head and neck and are commonly referred to as “ENT” physicians. Otolaryngologists diagnose and manage diseases of the sinuses, larynx (voice box), oral cavity, and upper pharynx (mouth and throat), as well as structures of the neck and face, facial skin disorders such as skin cancers, reconstruction of the face and cosmetic surgery.

What do Otolaryngologists treat?

The ears—Hearing loss affects one in ten North Americans. Otolaryngologists are trained in both the medical and surgical treatment of hearing, ear infections, balance disorders, ear noise (tinnitus), nerve pain, and facial and cranial nerve disorders. Otolaryngologists also manage congenital (birth) disorders of the outer and inner ear.

The nose—About 35 million people develop chronic sinusitis each year, making it one of the most common health complaints in America. Care of the nasal cavity and sinuses is one of the primary skills of Otolaryngologist. Management of the nasal area includes allergies and sense of smell. Breathing through, and the appearance of, the nose are also part of Otolaryngologist’ expertise.

The throat—Communicating (speech and singing) and eating a meal all involve this vital area. Also specific to Otolaryngologist is expertise in managing diseases of the larynx (voice box) and the upper aerodigestive tract or esophagus, including voice and swallowing disorders.

The head and neck—This center of the body includes the important nerves that control sight, smell, hearing, and the face. In the head and neck area, Otolaryngologist are trained to treat infectious diseases, both benign and malignant (cancerous) tumors, facial trauma, and deformities of the face. They perform both cosmetic plastic and reconstructive surgery.
Loving Life in Down East Maine
Leonard Ross was born and raised in Lubec, Maine. After graduating high school, Leonard enlisted in the Air Force where he learned how to fly airplanes and where he met his “wife to be” in Costa Rica. After leaving the military, Leonard moved to Connecticut, where he was an international pilot for a major airline. Today, 30+ years later, Leonard and his wife, Margarita call Lubec home.

In January 2009, Leonard traveled to Massachusetts for a colonoscopy. When he was asked why he traveled so far for this diagnostic procedure, Leonard replied that he was comfortable with hospitals in that area and was also concerned because a family member had died from complications while undergoing that same procedure. It was very important to Leonard and his family that he go to a hospital where gastroenterologists performed this type of procedure regularly.

Return to Maine
After the procedure, Leonard began the long drive home. During the trip north, he noticed symptoms that he knew required hospital care. His wife and his son, Leonard, Jr. drove him to a southern Maine hospital where exploratory surgery was conducted to find out what was going on. The surgeons discovered a perforated colon and he underwent three separate surgeries to repair the problem. Leonard came upon another hurdle when blood clots developed in his lungs during recovery.

He was then admitted to another hospital in southern Maine for rehabilitation and wound care, but the family soon decided that they could take better care him at home where he could be more comfortable. Leonard was referred to Therón Mock, Jr., MD at Down East Community Hospital, who designed a wound care plan and instructed Leonard’s son how to change the bandages and help his father rest more comfortably. The wound soon began to heal nicely.

A Long Journey
As a result of the prior surgeries, Leonard developed another health issue - a rather large hernia. Dr. Mock advised Leonard to wait at least six months before having an additional surgery.

Before that could happen, however, a urinalysis detected an abnormality so Leonard was referred to DECH Urologist Dhanvant Rathod, MD. Leonard said he had abnormalities for years but that a diagnosis was never made, but Dr. Rathod found a kidney stone! A surgical procedure broke the stone so it could easily pass and Leonard could then rest up for the next phase.

The laparascopic hernia operation took place September 8th 2009 at DECH and everything went just fine – until three days after the surgery when a blood clot was found in one of Leonard’s lungs. He was transferred to Eastern Maine Medical Center, which has the resources to monitor and treat such a delicate situation. Leonard stayed at the Bangor hospital for a week and then returned home.

About two weeks later, Leonard’s temperature spiked and he became quite ill. He went to see Dr. Mock, who immediately admitted Leonard to DECH for tests and observation. Fortunately, this time there were no additional complications, rather it is believed that Leonard may have picked up a seasonal virus. Mr. Ross and his family were very grateful that his condition was taken seriously and that he received such gentle care after all he had been through in the past year.

Reflection
With his ordeal behind him, Leonard is back to enjoying life in Down East Maine. He and his family remain very grateful that he received highly specialized, gentle care so close to home. In fact, Margarita said Washington County is lucky to have some of the most talented surgeons in New England with Drs. Mock, Massaad, and Rathod. “They are all so talented and caring. Dr. Mock especially is like the old style physician who just checks on you to make sure you are OK. They are all excellent doctors and good human beings.”

The Ross family is close-knit, and they are all thankful that Leonard, their husband, father, and grandfather is going to be OK. Leonard is already making plans for the future. “Last year I wasn’t even able to go out on my lobster boat,” he recalled, “Today I am walking two miles a day and getting my strength back.” Leonard Jr. remarked that, “Dad always could outwork me. This ordeal took its toll, but thankfully things are looking up.”
After two years of being the Administrator of Sunrise Care Facility, it still amazes me how the residents of the facility are so close to the community. How everyone has grown up with one another and when family comes to visit they end up visiting with half the residents here because they have known them for years. How the local fishermen donate lobsters, scallops & shrimp for the residents and how 8 year old Evan Merchant who, every spring since he was 4, brings carnations to the residents. No one is truly alone.

Once again our employees have shown their consistency with giving great care by being chosen as one of America’s Best Nursing Homes and by sharing the top rank in Maine with two other facilities. Our staff knows how important it is to treat people as they themselves would like to be treated.

Our residents and staff have benefited from our many upgrades to the facility. We have new windows for our dining room, new flooring for offices and the nurses station, and have had improvements made to our hot water system.

We recognize the importance of providing training to our staff, how that benefits them in becoming stronger in their profession, and how it benefits our residents with the enhanced services at their disposal. Our nursing staff was trained in IV therapy this year which means reduced inpatient hospital stays for our residents and for our rehabilitation patients. We recognize the importance of collaboration with other agencies and have worked closely this year with Hospice and have admitted a number of their clients for end of life care.

The Sunrise Care Facility Activity Department took our residents on trips to West Quoddy Light and to the backfield on Beals where everyone enjoyed wonderful picnics. Our residents also enjoyed the many shopping and restaurant outings. Once again we provided backpacks filled with school supplies to Beals, Jonesport and Addison elementary schools. Also, we were proud to be the Grand Marshall in the Jonesport 4th of July parade.

We have much to be proud of at Sunrise and we remain grateful for the support of Down East Community Hospital and our community.

The Down East Health Trust

Gratitude for Giving! Our hearts are filled with gratitude for the gifts of our generous donors during 2009.

At the Light A Life celebration held in December 2009, the Auxiliary gift shop was dedicated in honor of Leona MacBride and Wilma Ingalls for their years of dedicated service to the hospital. Leona (Noni) and Wilma (Billie) delivered classy renditions of their years connected with our hospital. The audience was riveted as they spoke. Noni and Billie were deeply touched to be honored at Light A Life and by the standing ovations that followed each of their speeches.

Our Donors

With generous hearts and generous spirits our donors in 2009 gave of their time, talent and charitable support.

With their help we were able to purchase two ventilators for our cardiopulmonary department.

We would like to send a special thank you to the Down East Community Hospital Auxiliary who has worked tirelessly raising money for their hospital since its inception.
